The dynamics of a gravitational torsion kink as a plane symmetric thick domain wall solution of Einstein-Cartan (EC) field equation is given. The spin-torsion energy has to be as high as the ...

Kinks and Domain Walls includes several state-of-the-art results, some previously unpublished. Each chapter closes with open questions and research problems and will be of great interest to both graduate students and academic researchers in theoretical physics, particle physics, cosmology and condensed matter physics.

The states are kinks, which are localized regions between two standing wave domains of the same wave number with an offset in spatial phase; and domain walls, which are localized regions between two standing wave domains of different wave numbers. The properties include preferred definite symmetry, a wide variety of distinct states, and hysteretic transitions that occur along boundaries in the ...

A domain wall is a type of topological soliton that occurs whenever a discrete symmetry is spontaneously broken. Domain walls also sometimes called kinks in analogy with closely related kink solution of the sine-Gordon model or models with polynomial potentials.

These local meanders contain kinks with "head-to-head" and "tail-to-tail" dipolar configurations and are therefore locally charged. The charged meanders are confined to a few cation layers along the polarization direction and are separated by longer stretches of straight domain walls.
